President Issues Appeal for More Speed by Unemployment Parley

WANTS JOBLESS PUT TO WORK 'AT ONCE'

Delegates to Urge States and Cities to Speed Plans for Public Work

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 .-A proposal that Charles G. Dawes, federal budget officer be placed in charge of a nationwide road building and public program work was made to the unemployment conference to-

Warning that past unemployment conferences have failed because no one has been designated to carry out their recommendations, William Hard, Washington, economist and writer, suggested that General Dawes co-ordinate and stimulate public works.

By HERBERT W. WALKER United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. — The national unemployment conference today had instructions from President Harding to confine its immediate labors to emergency recommendations for relief and not delve "too deeply" into the "big problems" underlying the nation's unemployment situation.

Harding's views were conveyed to Commerce Hoover.

The president has two reasons for his request, it was said.

Outlines Reasons 1-The desire to have the conference find work for men "at once" instead of indulging in long debates.

2-The fear that discussion at this time of wage reductions, the railroad refunding issue and other fundamental problems would cause a row among the conference delegates and possibly lead to a "break up" in the parley before it had accomplished results.

After the emergency measures for relief have been determined upon and tried out, the conference then has Harding's consent to "go the limit" toward tacking the deeper issues, it was understood.

Of special gratification to Harding and Hoover was the word that the sub-committees which have been considering separate conditions of the labor situation will be ready to submit "emergency" recommenda-tions to the general conference, tomorrow, nearly a week ahead of

Emergency Needs
Among the emergency needs

agreed upon are:

1—That all projected state, city and country road and public works improvements be put under way immediately. The nation now has in theh neighborhood of $800,000,000 of such projects which already have been authorized and the bonds sold. This is exclusive of government projects.

2—That all cities of 25,000 or more immediately establish free employment agencies and drive out of business the "bleeders among the private employment

-That big employers, who have been forced to discharge many of their employes inaugurate a "half time" system under which the remaining workers and those discharged could share in the pay roll.

THE PATCHWORK QUILT

By ELEANOR ELLIOTT Sing a song of characters, Come and have a look! Different kinds of people Shut up in a book.

When the book is opened They laugh and love and play, And when we tire we close the book And shut them all away!

WE ARE ALL GIVEN, it seems, to expecting our lives to run along something like a book, losing sight of the fact that Mother Nature, as an author, rarely gathers up the loose ends in the final chapter, but s inclined to allow them to flow free, entangling themselves among the lives of other people in an extraordinary manner.

There is no happy ending in Nature's books; happiness comes to her characters, yes, but not in the "and-lived-happy-ever-after" manner of our fairy-tale days. But nevertheless, we, her readers and characters we, her readers and characters we, her readers and characters we have the Ladies' Aid society, of the Ladies' Aid society of the Ladies' Aid society. ters, all expect the final chapter to end in a rosy glow, something like the "fadeout" of the motion pictures.

Another thing in life which comes as a surprise to us all, no matter how often we experience it, is the return to earlier scenes of life. This is always accompanied by a faint wonder that life, things and people have progressed since we last saw

Isn't that because we have the feeling that they should be like the characters in a book, which, when resumed after a lapse of time, be it short or long, remain as when we short or long, remain as when we restart that the remain terms on was just spen ing which time the dainty ices and cakes. losed the book, all in readiness to Fraternal Brotherhood take up the story and "carry on"?

Life, we argue, should stand still for those friends in the little home town, when we aren't there to see them moving along, so the manner in which John has grayed at the temples, and Kate has grown matronly and sedate, while the children have shot up into young manhood and womanhood, is only equaled by the manner in which familiar buildings and homes have shrunken to almost infantile proportions.

We had always thought of the city hall as being a massive and stately structure, but the march of time has structure, but the march of time has passed it by and left it among insignificant little buildings with a musty, fusty look. The halls of the old home seem less airy, even the fine old winding stair. (Do you remember how you and your sister earned a well merited punishment for the sliding down it on the big serving tray, coaxed from old Hannah, who reigned over the kitchen?) It, too, has grown shorter and narrower, and the old mahogany handrail is not so beautifully carved as you seem to shows how Dane Eldredge's poor, pretty little mother seems to lead a life of almost futility in proving the truth of the quotation.

Reading the book and watching the unfolding—or rather—the 'formation of Dane's character, one is conformed by the question as to whether it is really Dane Eldredge's story or his mother's, so vital a part she has in shaping and molding him. Dane, a handsome, sulky boy, whose years in France are only such Dane, a handsome, sulky boy, whose years in France are only sug-

Judith is adorable—a very modern young woman, indeed, with all the knowledge of life, rather than an ignorance of it, can bear. Her part in helping Dane to a knowledge of himself is far different from that of his father, for Mr. Eldredge is a phinis father, for Mr. Eldredge is a phinis father, and it is the lander of philanderers—and it is the expressed fear that Dane may grow like his father and have those countless little affairs which "are of man's life a thing apart," a fear that has the appearance of justice—that serves to break the engagement

Sale on North Birch Reveals Advance In Values of Property

The sale this week by Dr. J. H. The sale this week by Dr. J. H. Pullin of his office property at 412 North Birch street to City Councilman W. A. Greenleaf for $12,000 establishes a new front foot value on property in that vicinity and anidances the advence of and evidences the advance of semi-business property in Santa Ana in the period of eight years.

The lot was sold to Dr. Pullin by Horace Fine in February, 1913, for $2500. The frontage on Birch is 60 feet. Its depth is 100 feet. Pullin since owning it has spent probably $2000 in improvements. probably $3000 in improvements. The combination office and residence on the lot is now occupied by Herbert Davis, secretary of both Orange County Automobile Trades association and the Santa Ana Kiwanis club.

Because of injuries sustained in an automobile accident some months ago, Dr. Pullin has found it inadvisable to maintain a downtown office and for this reason he disposed of the property.

Greenleaf has purchased it to fill out his holdings on the co.ner of Fifth and Birch streets. Greenleaf owns 150 foot frontage on Fifth, including the garage building at the corner of Birch occupied for the past two years by Charles McCausland, agent for the Briscoe, Greenleaf's acquisi-tion of the Pullin lot gives him uniform depth to the first 100 feet west of Birch. The other 50 feet west runs back to the center of the block, Greenleaf owns the abutting lot facing on Fourth street, and immediately east of the old Blade building.

PLAN NEW ADDITION TO UNION HIGH GROUP

FULLERTON, Sept. 29 — Even with the junior college students seated in the balcony, there now remain only 70 vacant seats in the Fullerton union high school auditor rium, when the students gather for their frequent "assemblies."

This situation is one of the straws which point to the next big addition to the great Fullerton union high school and junior college plant on east Chapman avenue.

A half mililon dollar auditorium "class A" construction, is the pro ject which, while it belongs to future, already has its place in the far-seeing plans of Principal Plum-mer and the school trustees.

-Let Us Bring The Most Powerful servant in the world into your home-

The most powerful, most efficient, most dependable and least expensive servant in the world is ELECTRIC-ITY. A modern home, equipped fully with electric labor saving devices, is a play house so far as house work is concerned. These appliances give time for the cultivation of friends, for the proper rearing of children and for taking care of the "little things" that are frequently left undone in the home through lack of time and energy.

We can bring all these wonderful things into your home at a much smaller expense than you would naturally suppose. We want to wire your house and put you in touch with this most remarkable of all servants. Call at the store and let us talk it over.

Great lines to select from here

We now have one of the greatest lines of electric goods ever displayed in Orange County. There are many new ways of doing housework with economy and ease. We want you to see them. Any of these wodnerful things will be demonstrated in your own home if you wish by an expert.

We employ a specialist for every phase of electric work. Nobody ever guesses at what we are doing.

A Small Payment Down and Then a Few Dollars a Month Buys Any of Our Electric Equipment--

It always pays to buy electric goods at a regular electric store, such as this. It means better lines and more of them to select from, usually a much lower price and most important of alla service that goes with the sale—a service that makes right every possible defect and sees that you get your money's worth.

WHY NOT BE FAIR ABOUT IT?

If one may be permitted at this time to make a next year, it would be safe to say that misrepresentation is to play a large part.

And the sad part of the situation, from the thoughtful citizen's point of view, is that most, if not all, of the misrepresentation will be deliberate.

There are powerful forces in the state bent upon the defeat of Governor William D. Stephens. corporations who were unable to prevent the passage of the much-defeated King bill by the legislature last spring are avowedly against him, and doubtless there will be plenty of campaign money to be had to carry on a campaign aiming to defeat his re-election.

If the opponents were disposed to be fair in their fight, would they not deduct from the total the amounts for which the governor was in no way responsible? Would they not deduct the $17,000,000 or so that the people of California in the election of 1920 voted upon themselves, part of it in increased school taxes and some of it by transferring highway bonds expenses from the counties to the state?

And the Los Angeles Times, ever alert to attack Governor Stephens, displaying its usual unfair tactics, has charged Governor Stephens with failure to call a special session of the legislature for reapportionment of the state into congressional, state senatorial and assembly districts. The alleged traitorous act is howled from the front pages of the Times. ## WHERE GERMANY FAILS

Germany undoubtedly is coming back industrially, thanks to German willingness to work hard for little. But Germany is not coming back so rapidly as advertised, nor does she offer the business menace that America and other industrial nations have feared. This fact is particularly evident in recent reports of Latin-American trade.

Germany is not going to monopolize that trade. German manufacturers did, indeed, obtain vast quantities of orders in Argentina, Brazil and elsewhere, thanks to their low quotations, but they are finding it impossible to fill those orders. In many cases they cannot produce the goods at anywhere near the prices quoted, and the deals fall through accordingly. In other cases they cannot produce the goods at any price, because of lack of materials, equipment and capital.

American firms can produce the goods beyond question, if only they get the orders, and they are know what they want.—Albany Times Union. now getting orders in larger volume. who naturally think of this type of home construction as carrying an unusual fire hazard.

The frame house that is built right is fire resistive for all ordinary risks, and certainly carries no special hazards for the occupants, inasmuch as frame construction as now perfected is fully 50 per cent less liable to combustion than similar homes built ten or fifteen years ago.

When the properly built modern frame house does catch fire it is almost impossible for the conflagration to spread rapidly because of the "fire-stops" placed throughout the building and because the material which might ordinarily communicate fire to wood are properly insulated. These fire stops not only keep fire from spreading rapidly but they reduce prediction as to what kind of campaign the people of by 50 per cent the danger of fires starting within this state are to be treated to in the fight for governor the building itself. Such construction adds very little to the original cost of the building and gives all reasonable immunity against fire destruction.

in the governor fight to stay until it is finished." Richardson's move is an age-old move in political strategy. When-ever there is an outstanding candidate, recognized as the man who must go against the field, the opponents are always faced with a problem of divided strength. Each candidate naturally thinks he is the logical man for the opponents of the strong man to get together on. The candidate who moves out into the open first puts the other would-be candidates up against the necessity of getting rid of him before anyone of them has a fair show to win.

So Richardson is avowedly in the
